

Digital Revolution Changes the World: The 1990's

WebQuest Description: news stories of the 1990s

Grade Level: 9-12

Curriculum: Social Studies

Keywords: digital revolution

Published On:

Last Modified: 2018-11-27 13:14:07

WebQuest URL: <http://zunal.com/webquest.php?w=354411>

Introduction

PART A: On the google doc, read the instructions and use the hyperlinks below in the intro text to learn and then complete the definitions according to the instructions under Part A. During the 1990's, a Digital Revolution was helping to bring the world into American's homes in way not yet experienced before. With 24 hour a day news channels debuting on cable tv and new ".com" companies, and the wonder of electronic or "email", Americans began to see the news and share the news in ways never thought possible. Was the world getting crazier? Or were we just seeing the world in the 1990's through a different lens? Your task this week will be to watch summaries of some of the major news stories and events of the 1990's, and answer the questions for Part B. Use the Turn In options in Google Classroom to submit your document when finished. For the videos for Part B, click TASK in the left pane of this window to see the links.

Tasks

You will need headphones for this lesson! If you are on school computers, make sure you login to your wake id in the top right hand corner of the web browser so you get all the youtube.com content correctly, without error messages. Directions: Click and watch each video link or portion of the video listed and answer the questions on your handout. Make sure you include enough detail in your answers to PROVE you understand the significance of each event. Full credit only earned if you answer clearly and coherently. News Videos #1: Click to watch --> First World Trade Center Attack News Video #2: Religious Cult at Waco, Texas News Video #3: Oklahoma Federal Building Bombing News Video #4: Columbine High School News Videos #5: Rodney King and Los Angeles Riots History Channel Recap Video #6: Persian Gulf Wars